Bridges are passageways linking together places, things, ideas, and time. Like the George Washington Bridge, they may be tangible, real, and obvious; like the bridge between childhood and adolescence, they may be vague, elusive and obscure. Some bridges are permanent structures built to last a lifetime, while others are so transitory that indeed their very existence is debatable.

Sue Dykstra

The jangling alarm is forever stilled in my dresser drawer. Music from my clock radio now fills the moments left for savoring the lingering peace of the night while pondering the day's forthcoming activity.

Memories.

A reflective thought reveals highlights of the days gone by which have merged into a composite of pleasant memories.

As we grow, bridges materialize, fade, vanish and reappear in never-ending progression. The child becomes adult and progresses from the dependent individual to the self sufficient, from the student to the worker and often, from the idealist to the realist. We have before us a world of bridges; bridges of time, friendship, altruism, challenge, and many others. Some have been traversed, but many remain yet to be conquered.

Best Mountain Bridge

After four years of growing together it is time for the class of 1981 to bid farewell. We have seen classes before us leave and wish luck to those that remain. We have crossed over the bridge from awkward freshmen to prestigious upperclassmen. As we take that last glimpse down the halls we will never forget the people and moments that filled our years at R H S.

SPORTS . . . Page 66

Sports play a major role in life at R H S. In defeat as well as in victory, the team members always give their all. Every day after school dedicated athletes can be found in the gym or on the field working out in order to win for Ramsey. School spirit soars along with the team effort and the enthusiastic support of the cheerleaders. The greatest spirit, however, comes from the fans. Their smiles, whistles, shouts and stomps help give the teams that extra burst of energy that make the RAMS #1.

ACTIVITIES ... Page 114

School is not just for book learning. It is a place for the development of individuals socially as well as academically. Ramsey High School offers numerous activities in which students are encouraged to participate. There is an activity to suit every personality and interest. Whether it be debating, singing, reporting or dancing, each student can find fulfillment in an activity which expresses his or her individuality.

If someone were to say that a high school's reputation relies strictly on that year's class, they obviously have not been to Ramsey High. Underclassmen are involved in virtually all aspects of school life. The individuals who are today's underclassmen are the heroes and heroines of tomorrow's seniors. The Nugget Staff presents with great anticipation, the underclassmen of 1981.

Mr. George Rizzo

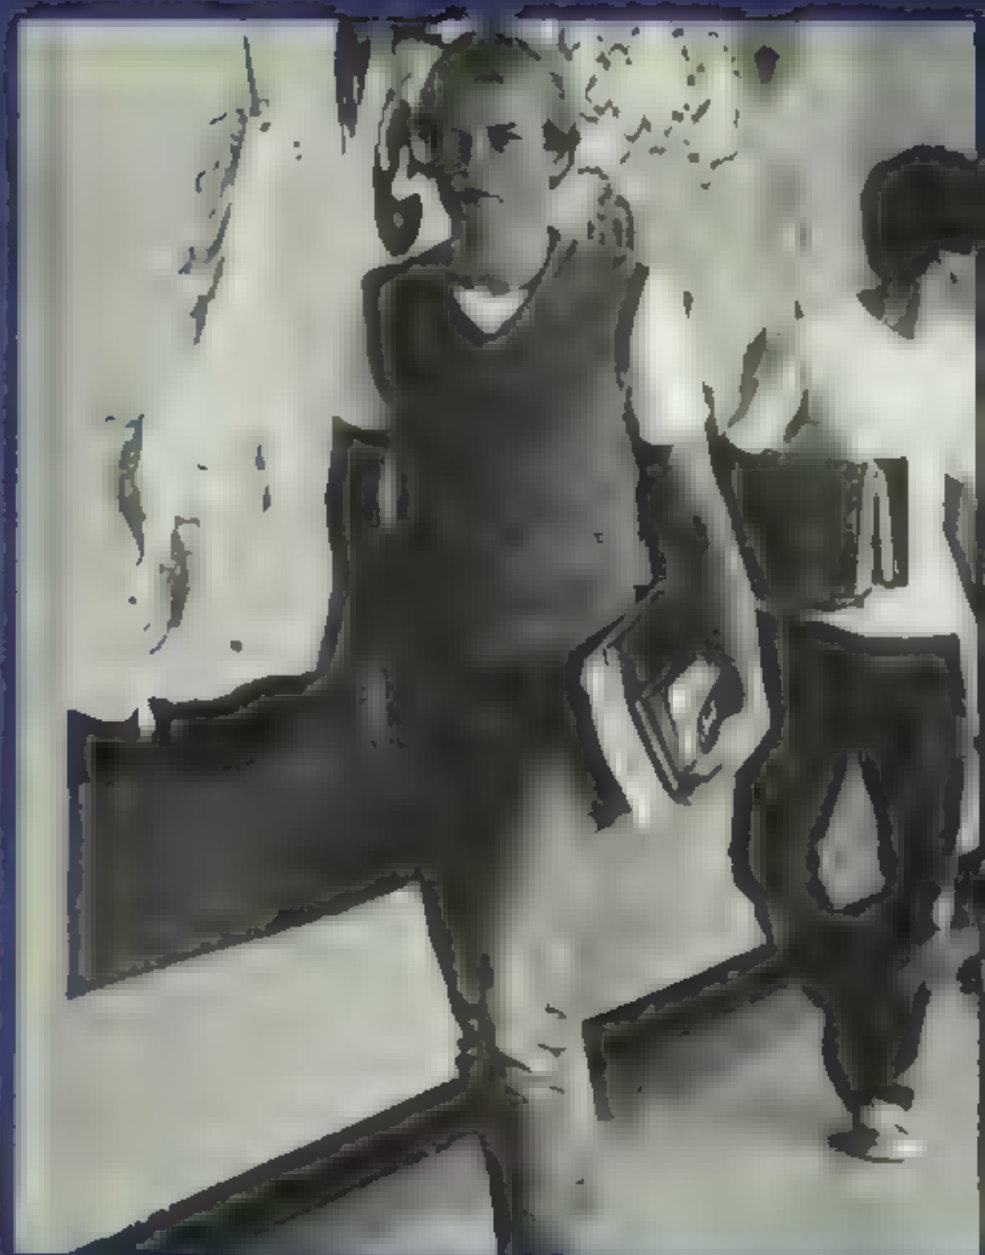

FACULTY and ADMINISTRATION ... Page 168

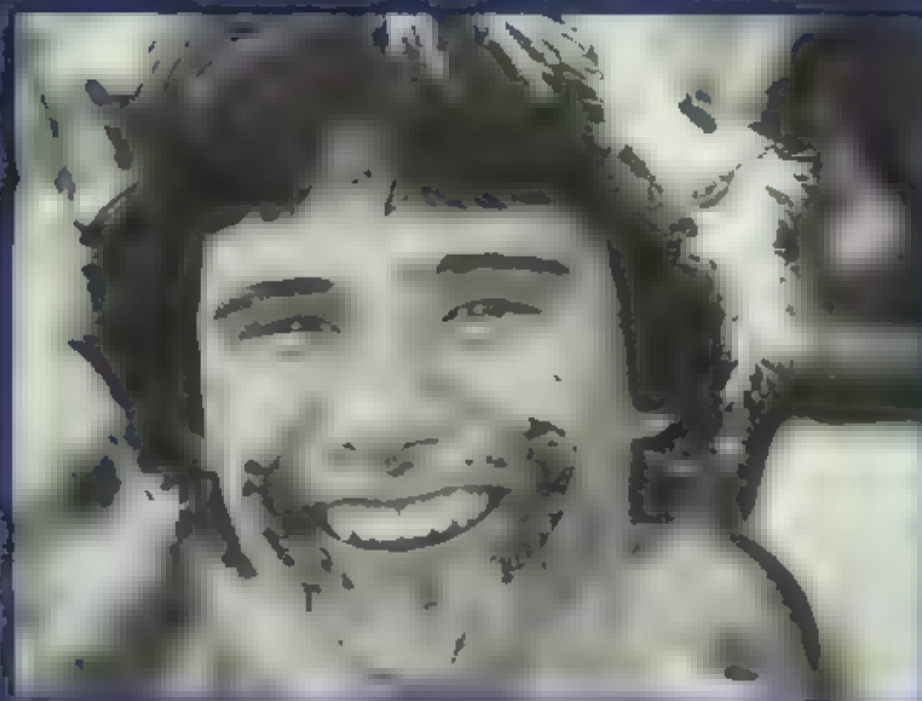

The atmosphere of a school is dependent upon its teachers. The teachers at Ramsey High have helped us to see what is best in ourselves so that we might use our natural skills more effectively. From them we have learned to question what we once might have taken for granted. They have instilled within us a sense of ourselves which allows us to move forward.

The image features a stylized, high-contrast graphic of a building facade. The facade is composed of a grid of rectangular windows, some of which are filled with a dark, textured pattern. A prominent curved banner or archway runs across the middle of the image, containing the word "SENIORS" in a bold, serif font. The overall design is modern and architectural, with a focus on geometric shapes and a limited color palette of dark and light tones.

SENIORS

Senior Class Officers

Each year the Senior Class Officers are elected by the Senior Class members. The officers are responsible for the Senior Class activities and the Senior Class newsletter. The officers are also responsible for the Senior Class fund-raising activities. The officers are elected for one year.

The diagram illustrates a four-stage pipeline. It consists of four rectangular blocks, each labeled 'M', arranged in a horizontal row. Above the first block is a label 'U', and above the last block is a label 'B'. Below the first block is a label 'W', and below the last block is a label 'V'. Arrows indicate the flow of data: an arrow points from 'U' to the first 'M' block; an arrow points from the first 'M' block to the second 'M' block; an arrow points from the second 'M' block to the third 'M' block; an arrow points from the third 'M' block to the fourth 'M' block; and an arrow points from the fourth 'M' block to 'V'. Additionally, there is a feedback loop: an arrow points from the output of the fourth stage back to the input of the first stage, passing through a block labeled 'W'.

1. The first step is to identify the key components of the system. This involves understanding the hardware, software, and data involved. For example, in a web application, this might include the server, the database, and the user interface.

[5.1. Ar. 1.1.1.]

Abstract. The authors consider the problem of determining the optimal control of a system whose dynamics are described by a stochastic differential equation with respect to a Wiener process. The cost functional has the form of an integral over time of a quadratic form of the state vector and its derivative with respect to time. It is shown that the optimal control can be determined from the solution of a boundary value problem for a system of ordinary differential equations. The case of a linear system is considered as an example.

A Team We Could Never Do Without

Time and time again, students and faculty members require the assistance of R H S's fine custodial staff. These men make up the silent army that keeps the school orderly after the last athletes and yearbook editors have departed. This year's staff is well organized and efficient in performing its duties around the school. To all of the custodial staff — thanks — we could never have managed without you!

ON THE RUN TO #1

From the beginning of July when workouts began, through the August Captain's practices, and into camp week September 1st, the Rams worked together to build a team of champions. Not even the team members realized how far the Rams would go during the course of the season.

Recognition started coming to the Rams following a defeat of Hawthorne, 15-6. The growing power of the team became more apparent after Glen Rock was demolished 12-6. The team romped undefeated all the way to its fourth consecutive playoff bid. They played their hearts out and beat the N.B.I.L.'s Demarest for the first state playoff win in Ramsey football history. The next game was the Turkey Bowl, a fearsome match against arch rival Mahwah, which the Rams took control of in the second half, to win 20-7. A final State playoff game was just around the corner at Giants Stadium, a Rocky II rematch against Hoboken. The Rams suffered an unfortunate defeat at the Meadowlands. Despite their first and only loss, the 1980 Rams will long be remembered for their triumphant season.

A dedicated, hard-working, and enthusiastic 12 cheered their best at every game. It was rather fitting that this fantastic squad reached the Giants Stadium turf. This year's seniors will be sorely missed next year. As for the record, they were 11-0 all the way.

RHS INVITATIONAL

The girls tennis team was a young one this year, but despite the inexperience in varsity action the members played well and came in second in the league with a record of 7-5. First and Second singles were played by seniors Allison Peters and Melanie Murray, respectively. Lisa Guidice, a sophomore, played well enough to receive Honorable Mention All-League. Other team members included Robyn Karver, Marie Hevm, Leslie Feil, Kris Markewitz, Meaghan McLaughlin, Jaime Richards, Mimi McLaughlin, and Margie Kondoleon. Next year should prove to be a good season with many starters coming back. Coach Terhune foresees a possible league championship in the near future.

The 1980 Varsity Gymnastics Team finished the season with a record of 4 wins and 6 losses. The Captain, Eileen Clare, qualified for the Sectional and County meets and received an Honorable Mention for the County. The team consisted mostly of sophomores who acquired a wealth of experience. With the majority of the team returning next year, the outlook for the 81-82 season is very promising.

VICTORY AFTER VICTORY

The 1980 Varsity Soccer Team was the most successful in Ramsey history. Their 19-4 season culminated with the Bergen County Tournament Finals.

The Rams' potent offense was led by John Karpovich, Scott Doyle, and all County forward John Sealy, with all-County half-back Mark Young coordinating the attack.

Ramsey's success was largely dependent on its midfield. Karl Korz and Doug Rossier did the defensive work while Jimmy Zeliff and Tim Perna carried the offensive duties.

Hugh Brewster led Ramsey's stubborn defense this year. Doug Jones, Andy Dunderf, and Joe Peraino were also vital to the Rams' defensive toughness.

Goalie, Bob Boff, a junior, finished the season with an impressive record, giving up a mere 20 goals.

The BPSL's Coach of the Year, John Cammarata, finished out his coaching career at Ramsey with a team which was the finest ever. His enthusiasm and his ability to work with players was remarkable. He will be remembered by his players not only as a coach, but also as a friend.

Field Hockey Season Proves Tough

Ramsey's Field Hockey team has a reputation for excellence. This year's team attempted to continue this tradition. The Rams took on twelve freshmen who had to develop playing expertise to fill the five varsity spots that were left vacant by graduating seniors. The new team played to the best of its ability — and it was enough. The team record was 8-6-4.

They moved into the county semi-finals defeating Northern Highlands 3-0 and then made it into state play. The seniors who played an important role during this successful season will be missed.

The 1980-81 Ramsey High School Basketball Team, led by Coach Bob Biegel, radiated a feeling of true team spirit throughout the season this year. Encouraged by team Captain Ted Bell and Co-Capt. Lou Kertesz, the team improved it's record over past seasons. Other starting players, who included Bruce Vozeh, Carl Korz, Scott Doyle, and Army Rusis, contributed to the team's success. Underclassmen John Mastandrea and Vince Leonetti also saw a lot of action. Greatly aiding the team were Seniors Tim Perna, as a defense specialist, and steady performer Pat Gil. Highlights of the season included a game against Mahwah and the triumphant victory over a talented Waldwick team. Although the team did have its ups and downs, feisty Coach Biegel held his team together and brought them back when the situation got tough.

The Physical Fitness Team, popularly known as the "Murray Nuts" helps athletes acquire a competitive edge. They have an exercise regimen consisting of sit-ups, push-ups, pull-ups and running. During the sixteen years that they have participated in Marine Corps competitions, they have won the state championship eight times, finished second four times, and come in third four times. At their peak in 1972, the Murray Nuts were so distinguished as to win the National Championship. The club is coached by Michael Adams.

A TOAST TO SYLVAN C. HERSHEY

Coach Hershey talking to team members Joe Mandara and Jeff Creamer

"The 1980-81 season was Coach Syl Hershey's seventh and final year as Head Coach of the Ramsey Wrestling team. The team's success this year was especially enjoyable to him. In addition to a 10-5 season, this year's team also attained Coach Hershey's 100th career coaching win, a feat they are especially proud of. In his own high school years, Mr. Hershey was a Pennsylvania State Wrestling Champ as a sophomore, and went on to a highly successful collegiate wrestling career. Ramsey Wrestling has achieved an impressive reputation in both Bergen County and State competition, thanks primarily to Mr. Hershey." — Robert Marcotulli

Coach Hershey demonstrates a move to a wrestler on the mat

"The keys to Mr. Hershey's success lie in his dedication to the sport, his competitive, winning attitude and his concern for his wrestlers both on and off the mat. These qualities rub off on the team and inspire athletes to work to their potential. Syl Hershey has made a lasting mark on Ramsey's wrestling program. He will be missed in the years to come." — Rich Cervino

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of understanding the cultural context of the research. It highlights the need for researchers to be sensitive to the values and beliefs of the communities they are studying. This is particularly important in the field of education, where cultural differences can significantly impact learning outcomes.

The second part of the paper focuses on the methodology used in the study. It describes the process of selecting participants, collecting data, and analyzing the results. The authors emphasize the importance of using a mixed-methods approach to gain a comprehensive understanding of the research topic.

The third part of the paper presents the findings of the study. It discusses the results of the quantitative data analysis and the insights gained from the qualitative interviews. The authors conclude that there are significant differences in learning outcomes between the two groups, and these differences can be attributed to cultural factors.

The final part of the paper offers recommendations for future research and practice. It suggests that educators should be aware of the cultural context of their students and tailor their teaching methods accordingly. Additionally, it calls for further research to explore the underlying reasons for the observed differences.

R.H.S. DEBATERS VOICE THEIR OPINIONS

Ramsey High Debate Club belongs to two debate leagues: The North Jersey Debate League, which has grown to include thirteen schools and has had to split into two divisions; and The Record Debate Classic, held at Ramapo College in May.

The purpose of the club is to engage students in debating a topic of national interest in order to stimulate thinking, to encourage students to express themselves well in a competitive situation, and to practice these skills of thinking and speaking within the rigid structure of a series of debates.

A debate consists of two teams of two members each. One team is affirmative and the other is negative. Each person presents a five minute constructive speech, then is cross-examined for two minutes by the opposing team. Then each team presents a two minute rebuttal. Teams are judged on organization, presentation, quality of evidence, and validity of argument.

Mrs. Norma Van Dyke is the advisor. Members include: Ruth Dreisbach, president, Morgan Gerhart, and John Kennedy.

BIG BLUE MARCHING BAND

The 1980 edition of the Ramsey "Big Blue" Marching Band was led to another successful season by drum major Todd Kemmerling. Their repertoire consisted of "Pictures of Spain," Drum Solo, Earth, Wind, and Fire's "In the Stone," Chuck Mangione's "Echano," "Don't Cry Out Loud," and a closing fanfare. The "Big Blue" finished the season with the best performance in the history of the band. At the Middle Atlantic States Championship they took fifth place in their size group. Ramsey High School should be proud to have one of the best marching bands in the Northeastern United States.

A lot was cooking in the home ec. room this year. The group got the scoop on what goes on behind closed doors by touring the kitchen of a local restaurant. Speaking of behind closed doors, members also visited the C.I.A. . . . better known as the Culinary Institute of America. Proverb #2 — "Be real or don't be at all." — Denise Neumann Managing Editor

Extra Extra

But it sounded so simple when Bill explained it! — Bill Adams

Each year the Nugget staff starts out to bring you THE SUPERIOR CREATION. This year's staff was no exception. Full of enthusiasm we anticipated a memorial to our efforts crammed with action photos, witty remarks and flattering pictures of students and teachers alike — the best yearbook ever!

However, we weren't far into the first semester when we realized the inevitability of compromise between the idealistic and the realistic. We learned that color pages were expensive, not all action shots were exceptional, and everyone's portrait was not glamorous or macho.

We had to come to grips with the fact that not all would see themselves in flattering poses as often as they would like. Composition, layout and editing were the tedious, unglamorous, behind-the-scene activities — and always there were the inevitable deadlines.

In the end we created another yearbook as a memento to the activities at Ramsey High School in the year 1981. Hopefully it is the best ever!

It was difficult enough before they took the keys off the typewriter!" — Joanne Ladd
Copy Editor

Four fools in the fountain

It was surprisingly difficult, after writing and laying out some two hundred pages, to do these three pages, to capture "our gang." As a staff, we've shared some hard times and we've learned to work together as a whole, each contributing his own "thing" to produce a perfect product. But we have to confess to the fun, too. Like the $250.00 we spent on food — be it pizza, B.K., crunchy Cheez Doodles, donuts, and other various munchies (Boulder Burgers!); our midnight meetings (in process right now!); our publishing representative — B.T. (Margaret really doesn't hate him!); and two adventurous editors who stole the typewriter from the RAM room, made it past three custodians and a room full of staff members all without being caught! Mrs. D. became our second mother, the yearbook room our second home. We battled the senior class, coaches, and the attendance office. Teachers began to ask when they would get their students back and parents began to set one less place at the dinner table. Now, in the end, we are relieved, but a bit sad. We'll miss the fun, the excitement of getting proofs back and having them turn out better than expected. But it was worth it, every last tear, every bit of laughter, every missed hour of sleep. Twenty years from now WE'LL look back and know that we made this book something to treasure.

Get, like, MEGA food . . . " Margaret Cassella, Senior Class Editor

You have been asked during your tenure at Ramsey High School to make many choices in your own best interest and pursue your education with a positive attitude and great enthusiasm. Your success in making the right choices, by virtue of your graduation this June, is evident. You have studied and worked, practiced and played, and grown — both mentally and physically — to the point that you are now ready to commence your lives as members of the adult community. Graduation, or "commencement", you see, is not an ending, but a beginning. For some of you this will mean college and further years of preparation and study. For others, it will mean a job and the responsibilities of family living. Whatever course your future takes, it is my hope that you will look back on your years at Ramsey High School — its courses, activities, and staff — as having prepared you to meet and deal with the challenges that life will present. On behalf of the staff and administration of Ramsey High School, may I offer to every senior my congratulations and my sincere wishes for joy and happiness in a productive and healthy life.

Each Person is Unique

The counselors at Ramsey High School believe each student is a unique person, with special needs, abilities, interests and goals. It is our hope to provide each student with an opportunity to develop a close relationship with a professional counselor, dedicated to working on behalf of that student. In counseling, all students have the opportunity to seek help for their concerns whether they be educational, social or personal. Counselors do their best to help students resolve their problems and thereby lead a more productive and well-adjusted high school life.

Speak Up

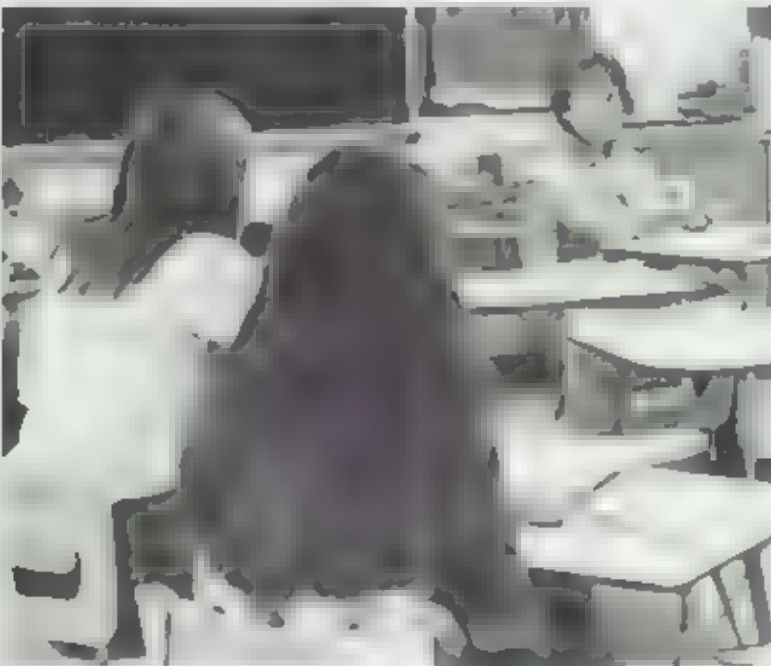

Language study is available to every Ramsey High School student, and nearly all take advantage of this privilege during some part of their high school career. Ramsey High School students can pursue French and Spanish through the fifth year and Latin and German through the fourth. Many students take several languages simultaneously, many audit other language courses and still others have chosen an independent study program in one of several levels. Each year language students are taken to local points of interest where they may apply their classroom instruction. In the last few years, Ramsey High School groups have enjoyed extended stays in Quebec, Spain and Mexico. The Foreign Language Department has always attempted to tailor its offerings to the changing needs of its students.

English is a MUST at RHS

Everybody takes English, but not everyone likes it nor do they speak it well. The English Department tries to help all students speak, write and read the English language as well as possible. During the first two years everyone takes the basic courses. In their junior and senior years students choose from a list of electives covering a wide range of interests, but all stress the basic skills in language usage.

Once Upon a Time . . .

The Social Studies Department at Ramsey High School seeks to develop in each student an appreciation of our American heritage and an understanding of human behavior in our complex world. The program of studies helps students to acquire knowledge, skills and attitudes leading toward the development of sound democratic participation. In addition to the required American history program, a wide variety of electives is offered. All students have the opportunity to explore areas of personal interests and to develop their full potential as students and citizens.

From Basic Skills to Calculus

The primary goal of the Mathematics Department is excellence in mathematics education for all students. The total program provides sequences of courses for students of different abilities and interests. Basic mathematical skills are reinforced throughout the mathematics curricula. The college preparatory program prepares students for freshmen college courses in analysis of finite mathematics. The culmination of the honors program is a course in calculus based on the syllabi of the College Entrance Examination Board; additional electives in computer programming and statistics are also available. The fine efforts of the department are rewarded each year in the excellent performance of Ramsey's students on a variety of standardized tests.

Science: Hope of the Future

In a time when our planet is beset with societal and technological problems, science offers hope for the future. To encourage a more adequate understanding of these problems and possible solutions, the Science Department takes great pride in offering students a selection of courses which coincide with their varied interests and abilities. Students who have taken science courses at Ramsey High School find that they have an excellent background for both further study in science and for application in practical situations. All courses are lab-oriented and emphasize problem-solving and development of logical thought. A better understanding of science can lead only to a greater understanding of our environment and ourselves.

Business Department Eyes the Future

The Business Education Department offers each high school student the opportunity to become a contributing force in the business world beyond the doors of RHS. Every student is a part of the business world now as well as after formal education has been completed. Whether a student elects skill courses to obtain employment or to acquire for personal efficiency depends upon his goals. The learning experiences and critical thinking developed in social business courses enable students to become successful consumers or producers. Competency in manipulation of our monetary system is mastered. Each course offers an opportunity for the student to acquire the attitudes and work habits needed for success in employment. Each contributes to the student's personal, civic and economic well being.

Artistic Communication

Since young people are immersed in, and often bombarded by, a highly visually and audibly oriented society, learning the means of artistic communication has definite advantages for the artist and non-artist alike. By doing so, these people will develop visual and musical criteria and discrimination extending beyond natural response and, more importantly, beyond conditioned tastes and preferences. Only people who are visually and musically knowledgeable are able to rise above fad and fashion and make their own reasoned judgments of what is appropriate for them and is esthetically pleasing as well.

Fix it Yourself

Industrial Arts is an important part of general education. It is a study of the ways and means by which we are supplied with materials and products which we use in everyday life. Included is a study of the changes we make in raw materials to increase their value for usage, the study of the selection in relationship to purpose of usage, a study of the care and upkeep of the products possessed, and a study of the social responsibilities we should share as a result of the methods and practices of industrial production and distribution. The consumer's point of view is particularly important in Industrial Arts. One learns what to do when a car refuses to run, how to cope with maintenance problems in the home, and what product is a better buy in the deceptive market place. Industrial Arts is then literally a survival course in our modern technological society.

Chin Up! Shoulders Back! Stomach In!

Physical education is an integral part of total education which contributes to the development of the individual through the natural medium of physical activity. The cooperative action of the Ramsey Schools provides a climate in which students are exposed to experiences that provide opportunities for the learner to develop and maintain a satisfactory degree of physical efficiency for daily living and to enjoy a variety of wholesome physical recreational activities, some of which may carry over into adult life. A carefully planned, selected sequence of activities provides continuing opportunities for the development of physical, social, and emotional needs throughout a student's life. The total program content relates to human growth and development and is designed to meet the interests, capacities, and abilities of individuals.

Special Services Sees To Special Needs

Students who have special learning needs or handicapping conditions requiring specific accommodations may be served by the Child Study Team (CST). The members of the CST are the school psychologist, a specialist in human behavior, the school social worker, a caseworker who counsels with parents and pupils, and a learning consultant, who is an educational diagnostician. The school nurse oversees the health and safety of students and serves as an adjunct to the CST. The speech and language pathologist works directly with students to help them with their communication skills.

To the Reader

The 1981 Nugget is the product of tremendous efforts on the part of a devoted staff. The late nights and early mornings are as essential to this book as the pictures are to the pages. The purpose of this book was to inscribe the memories of the Class of 1981 in a diary that we'll cherish for years to come.

I will never forget the all nighters at Mrs. Dieckhoff's or the closeness that grew between staff members who were thrown together last June with hopes of compatibility. I shall never forget my Nugget friends and the great times we've shared. And I shall never forget this yearbook, because every page holds a special magic for me.

There are many people without whose help we could not have functioned, and so I would like to thank:

- Mrs. "D", for all her advice, guidance, and judgement and for breakfast in the morning
- Denise, Andy, and Margaret, for helping me create a Sports section we can be proud of
- Rich and Lou, for showing me that I knew more about sports than I thought I did

Mr. Rizzo and Mr. Mercede for letting us make all those announcements, use the copier, and bending the rules every once in awhile.

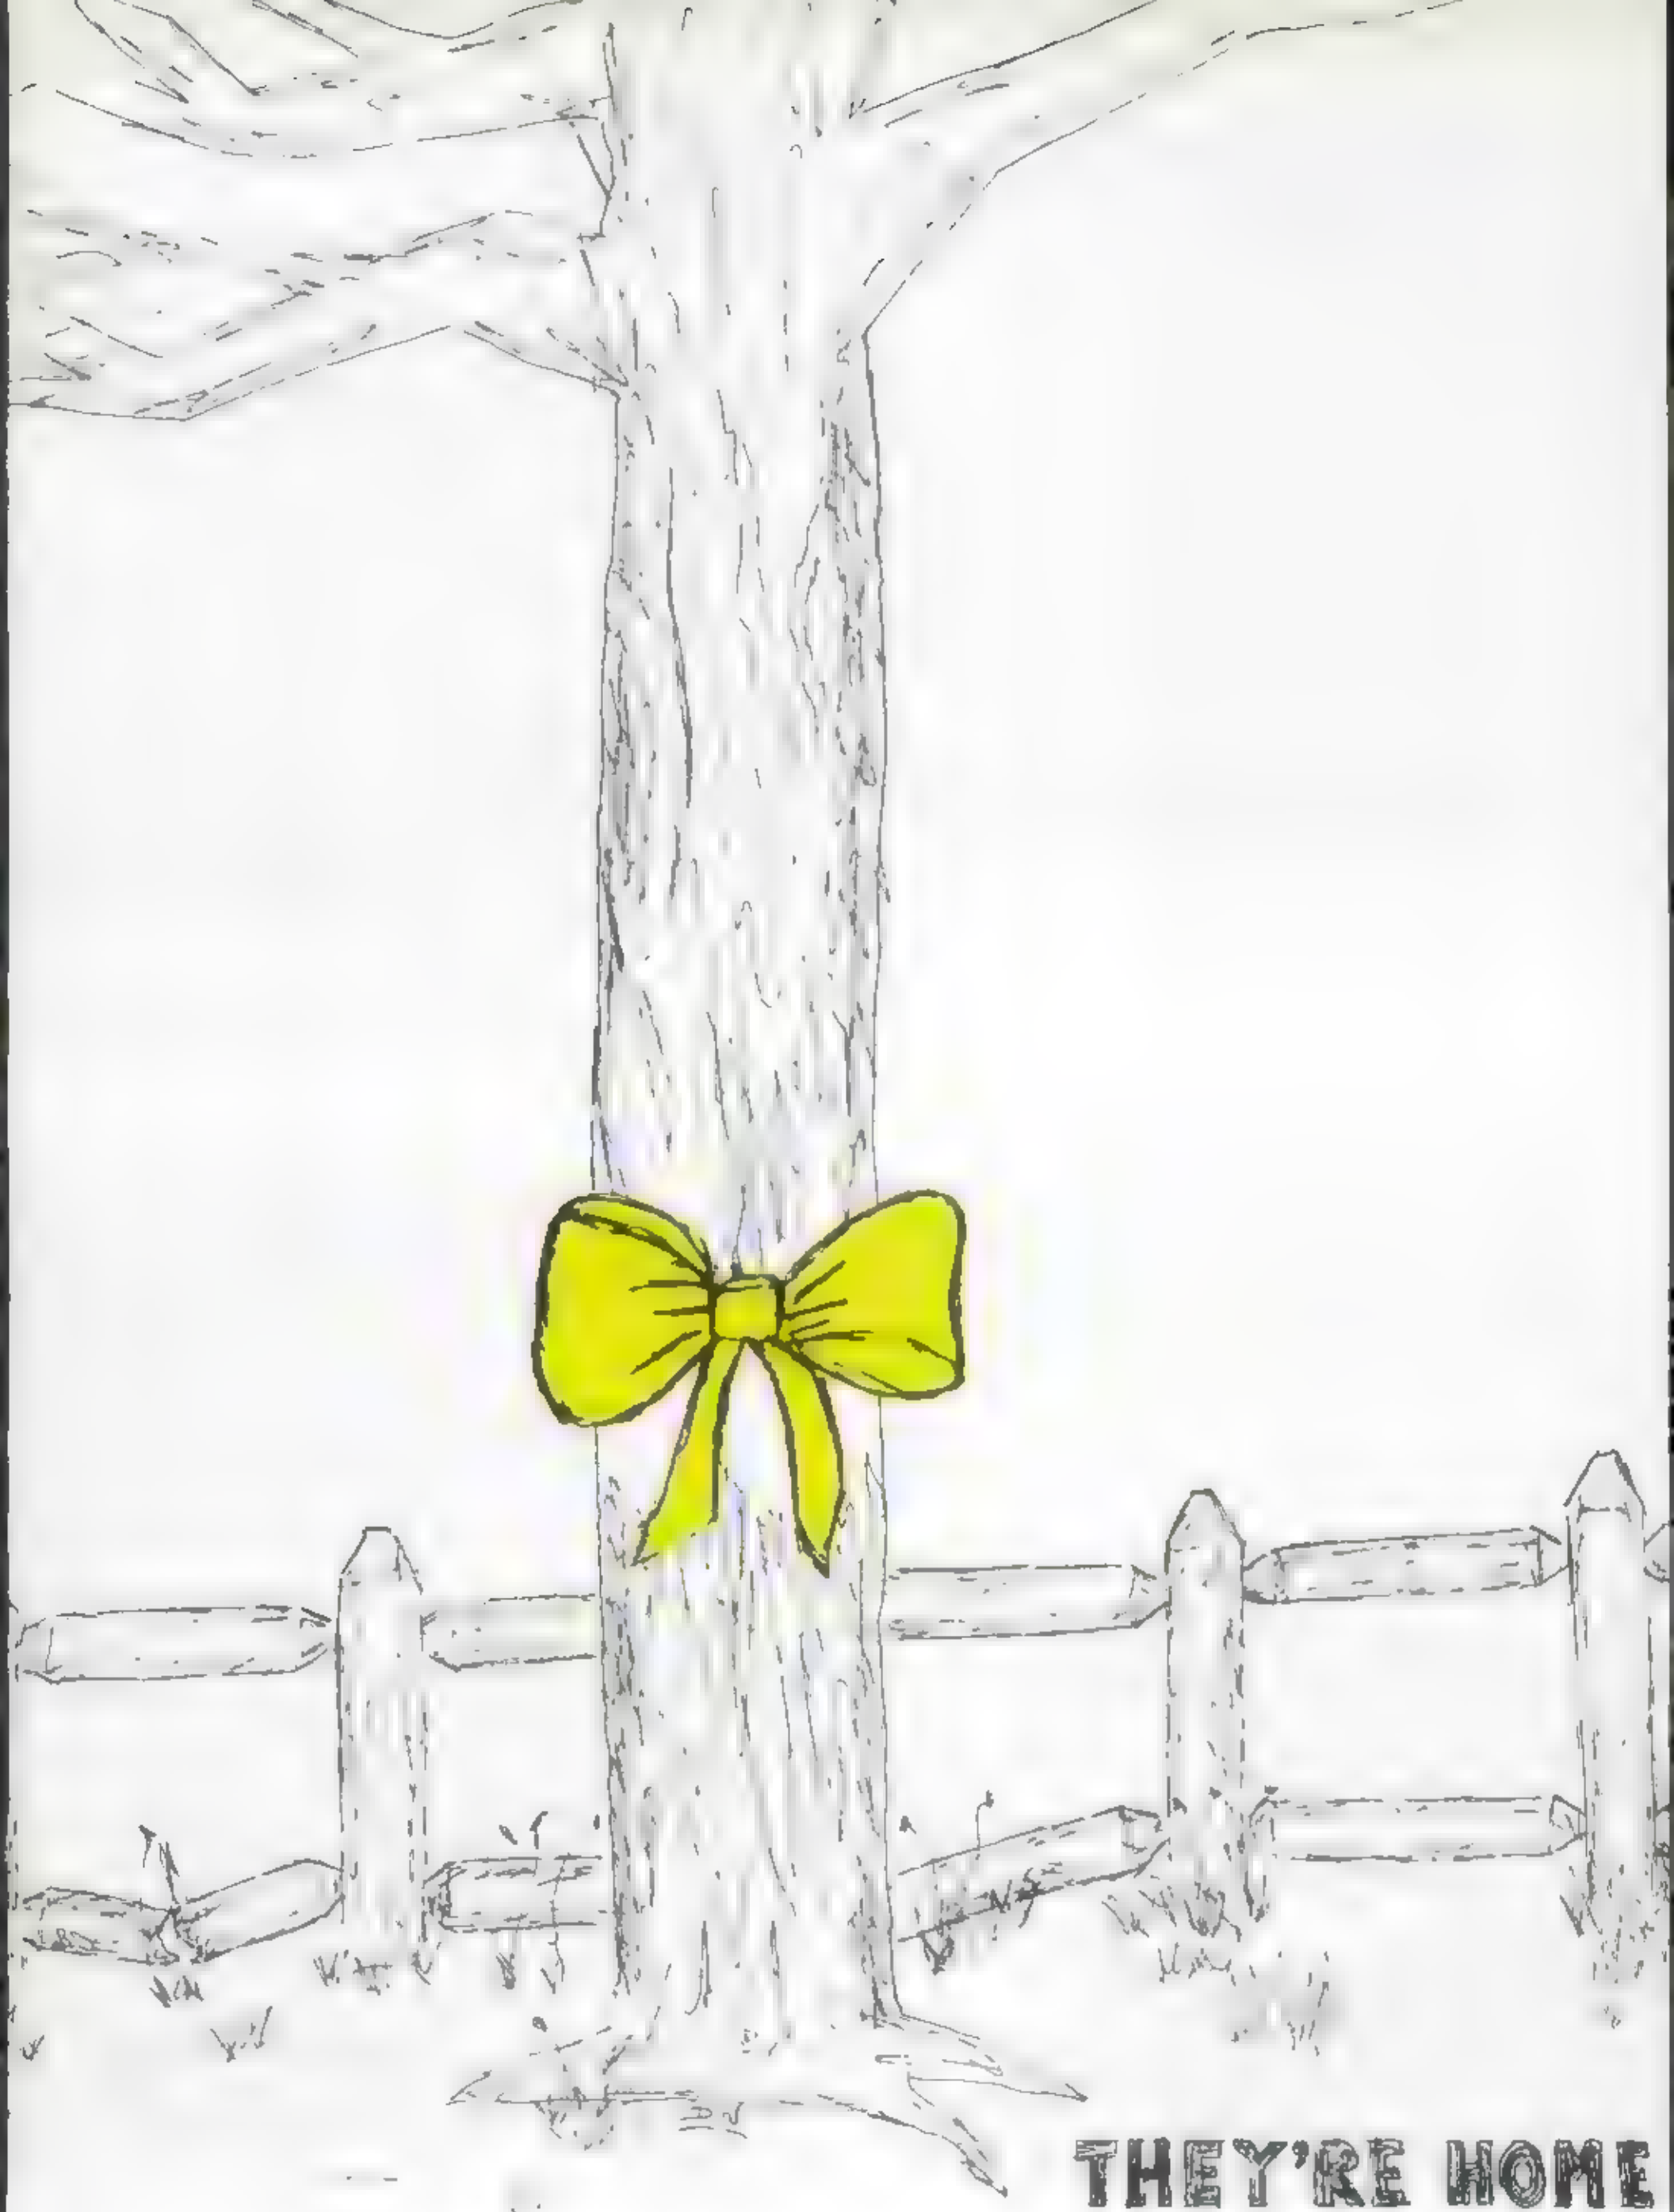

- All the Mothers and Fathers for putting up with tired, grumpy kids and long, late staff meetings
- The Underclass Editors, who worked so hard and did such a great job
- The Teachers who lost half their classes to "Yearbook Activities"
- The Janitors who cleaned up after our long meetings and let us stay in the building to finish everything in time for deadlines
- Bill Tilley, who taught us how to lay out pages
- Joyce Canaan, for helping, in more ways than one, just when we needed her most
- Jim Bischoff, because he always knew where the missing copy was.
- Joanne Ladd, who worked her fingers to the bone on the Senior section
- Almar Photo for their very special service, and Bob, for being so personable.
- And anyone else who helped us, people too numerous to mention

This Nugget is not for the Senior Class alone, but for the entire student body of Ramsey High School. Enjoy!
